Open-Ended Responses

1. In what ways did your instructor make learning possible for you during the Summer II 2025 semester?

Comments
Was very informative and helped a lot with one and one.
His office hours was always consistent. His grading was fair with what he taught.
Caleb made class very easygoing but still presented us with plenty of challenges during recitations.
He helped
Very resourceful
He did a very good job helping us and giving us opportunities to better understand the content
We could easily ask questions in class to give us a better understanding of topics
He had well organized and structured lectures that gave plenty of examples that demonstrated the topics that were covered that day. The homework's were manageable, and for the most part were applicable to the lectures (Though I will say the homework's had some errors in the questions).
He made learning possible by giving access to online textbooks and also giving out heads up for exams.
Hey taught with good real world examples and applicable stuff.
Taught me a lot about economics
Facilitated a lecture based course with open discussion
He was willing to re explain topics and go over old midterms with me, which was very helpful because I was struggling to understand Econ before! He was always willing to explain it in another way and ensure I understood the topics!
He answered all my questions and made everything clear. He gave us breaks in class.
He explained things in great detail when lecturing and was great in office hours.

2. Which aspects of this course should be kept for future times this course is taught?

Comments
Slow it down a bit
Resources
All of it
All aspects were very helpful especially the recitations
The lecture structure and homework structure should be kept, although they could use some updating to keep up with the times (ie: outdated data/facts).
I think recitation , and the lecture style presentation as well as personal feedback should be kept. I also think that the grading and the online access should be kept.
The achievement should be kept as it is a good teaching tool.
All I felt like it was a pretty good course
Everything seemed important to me
The format and pace of the assignments and midterms was great for a summer course
I like the fact he gave us a break midway through class.
I thought the review days were very helpful.

More practice problems would help.
Everything. I loved everything in how they taught the material.
Definitely keep the same way recitations are done, also the practices for the midterm. Also the better or worse percentage change for the midterm.
